The Francais, Duke de Broglie's organ, yesterday stated that the ministers were prepared to meet the chambers and defend their policy, but, at the same time, were ready to resign should President MacMahon think it his duty to summon other counselors. The Francais to-day explains that this did not mean that President MacMahon was disposed to capitulate to the left.

The Constitutional and Pays, however, assert that President MacMahon has accepted the resignation of the cabinet on principle, but requested the ministers to retain their posts pending his future decision. The Pays adds: "Saturday's council was somewhat excited, President MacMahon declaring that he intended to enter upon the path of course mise and conciliation. Ministers De Broglie and Fourtou supported this course."

The Soliel insists that either MacMahon or the ministry must resign. There is no other way out of the crisis.

The result of the second ballot yesterday for members of the chamber of deputies, so far as known, show nine government candidates and two republicans elected in three arrondissements. The republican candidates claiming that they were elected on the four-teenth instant did not stand yesterday, intending to submit their claims to the chamber of deputies. The republicans, however, did not attach much importance to these supplemental elections, because, in excluding the three arrondissements mentioned on the second ballot, they were rendered necessary sim-dering the result certain. Compte de Espen-illes, a Bonapartist, has defeated Gudin, a moderate republican, whose candidature Gam-betta went to Chateau Chinon to support. Later returns show fifteen second ballots yesterday, resulting in the election of eleve conservatives and four republicans. The cham ber stands 320 republicans and 210 conserva ves, as previously stated.
